DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

3. Claim 9 recites the limitation "cylindrical block". There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 4 and 5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kimble in view of Hoshino ('343).

Kimble discloses the use of a High Hat Stand comprising an upper rod member(93) with a movable cymbal at one end thereof (see figure 1) and an external thread formed at another end thereof (column 7, lines 5-15), a lower rod member (93) with a foot pedal connected at one end (see figure 1) thereof and an external thread formed at one end thereof (column 7, lines 5-15), and a connecting nut thereof that threadable connects the upper rod to the lower rod (see figure 7).

Kimble does not disclose the specific use of an upper nut member with an elastic section.

Hoshino(343) discloses the use of an upper nut member with an axial hole formed inside and a lateral hollow portion which extends at right angles (see figure 1) with elastic section (40, 50) that is compressed upon connection of members and undergoes elastic recovery upon separation of the members in the connecting section.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the stand as disclosed by Kimble with the elastic recovery elements as disclosed by Hoshino in order prevent unwanted vibrations

3. Claim 6-8 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

4. Claim 9 would be allowable if rewritten to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, set forth in this Office action and to include all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

5. The indicated allowability of claims 4 and 5 is withdrawn in view of the newly discovered reference. Rejections based on the newly cited reference are recited above.
